"The Bell was again upon the Stroke of One." Drawn by Alan Tabor 321

I put in a book once, by hook or by crook,
The whole race (as I thought) of a "feller,"
Who happily pleas'd the town's taste, (much displeas'd)
— and the name of this person was Weller.

I find to my cost, that One Weller I lost
Cruel Destiny so to arrange it!
I lose her dear name which has won me some fame,
But Heart how gladly I'd change it!
